

An aerial photograph of a coastal town, likely in Southeast Asia, featuring a river flowing through it. The town is densely packed with buildings, mostly with blue roofs, and is surrounded by lush green vegetation. A long bridge spans the river, and numerous boats are visible in the water. The coastline is visible on the left, with a sandy beach and the ocean beyond.

(新华社北京 8 月 16 日电)